

Software and accessories for computers - special additions to loan conditions

- Software and accessories for computers are made available on loan as personal assistive devices by the healthcare principal.
- The configuration arranged by the prescriber must remain intact, as the installed assistive technology software will not work with all programs. You must check with the prescriber before installing any other software or hardware.
- You are responsible for your internet connection and/or connection to a local network and for data stored on the computer.
- You are also responsible for the security of computer assistive technology software, i.e. their storage and protection from viruses and intrusion.
- If you need support or repair, contact your prescriber. Your care provider will pay for support and repairs that arise as a result of normal use and which apply to prescribed assistive devices. You must pay for any faults that arise through carelessness or negligence, such as your installation of other software programs or use of the computer by another person.
- Software, licence numbers, operating instructions and accessories belonging to the prescribed assistive device must be stored safely and must be included when the assistive device is returned.
